According to Eurostat 2018, the Bucharest-Ilfov region is the most developed in Romania, with a GDP per capita (expressed in standard purchasing power) of 139% of the European average, over regions including other European capitals such as Athens (92%), Madrid (125%), Berlin (118%) or Budapest (102%).

The region's economy is dominated mostly by the functions of the capital, the active population of the region being linked to the units operating here. The Bucharest-Ilfov region is the largest industrial agglomeration in Romania, where all industrial branches are present.

Trade, warehousing, logistics and distribution, administration-communal households, constructions have evolved rapidly, so the region is distancing as a development level from other regions despite its unfavourable geographic position.

The Bucharest-Ilfov region generates 25% of the total national economy and has the largest share in Romania's exports (21.8% in the first eight months of 2015)..

In Bucharest, there are established almost all major Romanian companies, from OMV Petrom to Rompetrol Downstream, Orange Romania, Vodafone, British American Tobacco and Telekom Romania.

Also in Bucharest are located the most important transportation hubs of rail road, air-national and international of the country. The region is located at the intersection of two European multi-modal corridors: Priority axis no. 7 (Nădlac - Constanța), Priority axis Giurgiu - Albița, planned to be built in the period ahead, and the European Priority axis no. 18 (the proximity of the Danube). The 2014-2020 Regional Operational Program (ROP) is one of the programs for the 2014-2020 Partnership Agreement, through which European structural and investment funds can be accessed. The 2014-2020 Regional Operational Program (ROP), managed by the Ministry of Regional Development and Public Administration as Managing Authority, was adopted by the European Commission (EC) on June 23, 2015.

The strategic vision of the development needs to be met by ROP 2014-2020 is based on the analysis of the economic and social situation of the regions of Romania (National Strategy for Regional Development 2014-2020),

The overall objective of the ROP 2014-2020 is to increase the economic competitiveness and improve the living conditions of local and regional communities by supporting the development of the business environment, infrastructure conditions and services, ensuring the sustainable development of the regions, capable of managing in a resource efficiency, capitalize on their potential for innovation and assimilation of technological progress.

The Bucharest-Ilfov region is classified as "more developed region" in terms of GDP per capita (according to EC Regulation 1303/2013 art.90, paragraph 2) and therefore the allocation for the Bucharest-Ilfov region through the 2014-2020 REGIO Program is much lower (1927.67 million lei) compared to the other regions of Romania and has a smaller number of financing directions:

- Axis 3 - Increasing energy efficiency and reducing carbon emissions with an allocation of 1379.9 million lei
- Axis 5 - Preservation of Historical Monuments and Urban Regeneration with an allocation of 187.5 million lei
- Axis 6 - County roads with an allocation of only 61.1 million lei
- Axis 9 - Local development placed under the responsibility of the community with an allocation of 64.3 million lei
- Axis 10 - Educational Infrastructure with an allocation of 244.6 million lei

Cultural and touristic objectives rehabilitated and consolidated through REGIO

The Patriarchal Palace

The building, now called The Patriarchal Palace, was built by the Romanian government at the beginning of the twentieth century on the site of the former Hall of the Deputies' Assembly on the Archdiocese Hill in Bucharest. According to the register of deeds, the hall of the Old Assembly, together with its related land plot, used to belong to the Romanian Archdiocese Church, which had been headquartered in some of the surrounding buildings of the current cathedral on the Archdiocese Hill.

This building ensemble comprised of Patriarchal Cathedral, Patriarchal Palace and Residency is situated on the ancestral site of the Constantine and Helena Saints Monastery and was built after an endowment made by Constantine Serban Voda (1654-1658) to the Archdiocese Church of Romania.

Due to the fact that during the second half of the nineteenth century the Romanian Archbishop had a preeminent role, numerous landmark events used to take place at the Archdiocese Hill. One such event took place on January 24, 1859, when the Elected Assembly of Walachia, under the chairmanship of Bishop Nifon, voted for the election of Alexandru Ioan Cuza as Prince of the Romanian Principalities and, by doing so, the union between the old provinces of Wallachia with Moldavia and the creation of modern Romania.

The political and urban transformations that occurred in Bucharest after 1859 have made it possible to plan and build the Chamber of Deputies building between 1906 and 1908 on a land parcel that had been transferred from the Church to the State in 1883. When the transferred occurred, the National Legislative Bodies decided to replace the old Assembly Building with a new one (the existing building) and replace the old church with a majestic cathedral. Due to an unfavourable historical context, only the first objective -the Assembly- managed to be built.

The Patriarchal Palace was built according to the blueprints of architect Dimitrie Maimarolu, and was the first reinforced concrete work in the country. After its initial consecration, it has undergone various changes over time, the most important being the restoration of its dome, which collapsed during the earthquake of November 10, 1940.

After December 1989, the Romanian Orthodox Church increased its cultural and missionary activities and, because of increased needs, there was insufficient available space for properly carrying out of these activities. Meanwhile, the Chamber of Deputies decided to relocate to the Romanian Parliament building. The Patriarchal Palace which was originally built on church land, was returned in the care of the Patriarchy by the Decision of the Romanian Government (No. 941 of October 8, 1996).

A few years later, in 2010, and due to the diligent efforts of His Beatitude Patriarch Daniel, the Patriarchal Palace full ownership was returned to the Romanian Patriarchate (on December 6, 2010, by the Romanian Government Decision no. 1229).

The Patriarchal Palace has been thoroughly renovated following a grant of the European Commission (European Regional Operational Program 2007 - 2013, Priority Axis 5 - Sustainable development and tourism promotion).

The project included funding for the foundation consolidation, facilities restoration, environmental protection, and artifacts conservation in order to introduce this historical monument as a tourist destination.

Project details:

Implementation Period: March 2014 - December 2015*

Total value of the renovation project: 84.9 million lei, of which the grant value was 67.2 million (79%) and the beneficiary's contribution was 17.7 million lei (21%).*

The Astronomical Observatory "Vasile Urseanu"

The Astronomical Observatory has been rehabilitated through the Regional Operational Program 2007-2013, Priority Axis No 5 - Sustainable development and promotion of tourism. The project provided the execution of consolidation, restoration, protection and conservation of the monument in order to introduce it in the public and tourist circuit.

The Triumphal Arch

The Triumphal Arch, built between 1921 and 1922 after the project of architect Petre Antonescu, is a symbol of victory in World War I, symbolically linking Bucharest of the ancient Rome, the civilization which has imposed the arch as a symbol of victory. Similar to other Latin countries, Bucharest used the arch in Paris, commissioned by Napoleon, as a model.

For Romanians, the Arch means the symbol of uniting people who speaks the common language, more than the victory in the World War I. On the west side of the monument lies the text: GLORY TO THOSE WHO THROUGH BRAVERY AND SACRIFICE THEIR BLOOD HAVE ACCOMPLISHED NATIONAL UNITY.

The Triumphal Arch was rehabilitated under the Regional Operational Program 2007 - 2013, Priority Axis 5 - Sustainable development and tourism promotion. The project provided for execution of the consolidation, restoration, protection and conservation of historical monument in order to introduce it in the public and tourist circuit.

Project details:

Total value of the project: 30.46 million lei from which eligible value of 22.52 million and beneficiary's contribution 2.06 million lei.*

The Folk Art Museum "Nicolae Minovici"

In the year of 1905, the building was erected on the outskirts of Bucharest, to become a genuine resting villa for the owner, Nicolae Minovici PhD, a leading exponent of the early twentieth century medicine. But in 1906 the destination is changing radically and becomes shelter for an extensive collection of ethnographic art, as well as the first museum in Bucharest, originally called the National Art Museum 'Nicolae Minovici, PhD.'

The building placed on the Bucharest-Ploiesti Highway, near with Pompiliu Street, is regarded as one of the outstanding architectural monuments for Neo-Romanian style. The owner's approach to gather objects of national art and imageries resulted in the villa project, today's folk art museum 'Nicolae Minovici'.

The Museum was rehabilitated by the Regional Operational Program 2007-2013, Priority Axis 5 - Sustainable development and promotion of tourism. The project provided for execution of consolidation, restoration and rehabilitation of the monument, seriously affected by the passage of time and in danger of decay.

Project details:

Implementation Period: July 2011 - December 2015*

Total value of the project: 14.99 million lei, of which eligible value 11.24 million lei, and beneficiary's contribution 3,46 mil lei.*

"Filipescu-Cesianu" House

Near Victory Square, at the intersection of Calea Victoriei and Sevastopol Street, was the residence of Carlos Cesianu. The actual building is one of the few aristocratic residences of Bucharest from La Belle Epoque, remaining faithful to the initial project, from the period 1846-1850. In this residence lived several families from Romanian aristocracy, such as Iancu and Maria Ghica Filipescu. The architect Leonidas Nadar helped with extensions of the aristocratic residence. On this occasion the exterior decorations, imperial roof and the Park residence were developed. The residence is bordered by Sevastopol Street, a street that once wore the name of Filipescu, because it stretched along its properties.

The "Filipescu-Cesianu" House has been rehabilitated through the Regional operational programme 2007-2013, Priority Axis 5 - Sustainable Development and Promotion of Tourism. The project provided execution of consolidation, restoration, protection and conservation of the monument in order to introduce it in the tourist circuit.

Project details:

Implementation Period: July 2011 - October 2015*

Total value of the project: 8.58 million lei, of which eligible 5.9 million lei and beneficiary's contribution 2,65 million lei.*

"Tei-Plumbuita" Leisure Park

The theme of the park is "Enchanted Land". It imparts from the Romanian folklore characters, places, happenings and themed elements that make up a fairytale world that offers familiar elements for both children and adults, the latter having the opportunity to remember the childhood. The park is divided into 3 large areas by the two main alleys of the park, each with a homonymous route: The silver forest, The brazen forest, The realm of the Green King.

Within the project, a recreational structure was created by placing 7 amusement equipment in the Tei Park, namely: rollercoaster, house of horror, large wheel, chains, small wheel, carousel and electric cars, and 3 seats play for children (1 inflatable play area and 2 playgrounds re-positioned).
